To determine the stereochemistry of optically active aldopentose A, A was strongly oxidized with nitric acid to give optically active diacid B. Degradation of A gave optically active aldotetrose C. Degradation of C gave D-glyceraldehyde. Nitric acid oxidation of C gave optically inactive diacid D. Give Fischer projections of A, B, C, and D.